Announcing The New Typewriter OLIVER NO. 7

WE ANNOUNCE AN AMAZING MODEL—The OLIVER No. 7—a typewriter of superexcellence, with automatic devices and refinements that mark the zenith of typewriter progress. A marvel of beauty, speed and easy action. Typewriting efficiency raised to the nth power.

The OLIVER No. 7 embodies all previous Oliver innovations and new self-acting devices never before seen on any typewriter. A leap in advance which places the Oliver ten years ahead of its time. So smooth in action, so light to the touch, so easy to run, that experts are amazed. A model that means to the typist delightful ease of operation.

A model that means a higher standard of typewriting, longer and better service.

The No. 7 is now on exhibit and sale at all Oliver Branches and Agencies throughout the United States.

The new model has more improvements, refinements and new uses than we can even enumerate here.

The "cushioned keyboard" with "anchor keys" and the new automatic features mean less work for the hands, less strain on the eyes, less manual and mental effort.

With all of these masterly mechanical improvements we have made the machine more beautiful and symmetrical. From every standpoint the Oliver No. 7 attains superlative excellence.

Nothing you could wish for has been omitted. The new devices, refinements, improvements and conveniences found on the No. 7 represent an enormous outlay and vastly increase its value—the price has not been advanced one penny. We shall even continue in force our popular 17-Cents-a-Day purchase plan, the same as on previous Oliver models.

The OLIVER No. 7, equipped with the famous Printype, if desired, without extra charge.

You owe it to yourself to see the new machine before you buy any typewriter at any price. Note its beauty, speed and easy action, its wonderful automatic devices. Try it on many kinds of work that no other typewriter will do.

Try it on any work that is ever done on typewriters.

It is a significant fact that the typewriter that introduced such epoch making innovations as visible writing, visible reading, printype, etc., should be the first to introduce automatic methods of operation.

NOTES

Most people seem to think of shorthand merely as a trade or profession, but it is far more than that.

Hugh Chalmers, President of the Chalmers Motor Car Company, a man who some time ago gave up a $72,000-a-year salary to go into business for himself, recently expressed himself thus: "I have always said that the position of stenographer is the best training ground for a young man, if he has any brains, and if the man he works for has any brains, because he can learn more in that way than in any other that I know of."

Arthur Brisbane, editor of the New York Evening Journal, says, "Stenography is an excellent training in exactness." And the Gregg Writer in commenting upon this, says, "President Wilson receives much praise for his lucidity and conciseness of expression. Does it not seem more than plausible that President Wilson, having written shorthand for forty years, may owe his admirable expression to the training which the use of shorthand gives the earnest student."

EVERYBODY should learn shorthand.

EVERY GIRL SHOULD HAVE A BUSINESS EDUCATION

The following words are from a woman whose name is well known in nearly every home in America:

"Could you review one year's correspondence with myself or any other woman whose business brings her into a sisterly relationship with thousands of her sex, you would hardly need this little talk to stimulate you to a desire for a business education. From women, married or single, come the queries: 'How can I earn my daily bread?' 'How can I increase my slender income?' The banker's wife may be the sole bread winner tomorrow, and if she is left with ample means, she certainly has need of thorough business education, that she may not trust the management of her property either to the disinterested or unscrupulous.

There is something grand in being a useful and independent spinster, but pitiable in being a helpless, dependent one. Let us look at one instance for illustration: A brother and sister graduate from high school. The brother goes to a business college and from thence out into the business world, never stopping or once losing ground. The girl simply tarries at home until she either marries or becomes elderly. If she uses her education at all, it is to teach some easy school for a term or two. Her father thinks that there is no need for her to learn anything about business, he can take care of her; but by sudden change of fortune he dies poor and she has no means of livelihood. There is but one course open—go to her brother. This means drudge in his kitchen; wait on his wife; help raise his children; be ten servants in one for the princely remuneration of bread, butter and home. Not a bit overdrawn. There are countless like cases. You can see for yourself how different all might have been had she gone right on after graduating.

"A widowed mother of five children wrote the other day: 'Thank God that if need be, I can go back to stenography and earn my own living.' Colleges and schools of all sorts are open to both sexes now, and it is possible to be a business woman. You have only to be wide awake and ambitious, and you can fortify yourself as well as your brother can."
